

Reading: Read Your Favorite Book to Another Child

Overview: reading opens new worlds and sparks imagination. We read to learn, be inspired, and to have fun. Young children whose parents read them five books a day enter kindergarten having heard about 1.4 million more words than kids who were never read to, a new study found.

Pick your favorite short book to read to another child.

Activity: Reading to another child.

Materials:

1. Your favorite board book or short book (in this episode, Tom & Ollie read “Dragons Love Tacos,” but any book will do!)
2. Comfortable place to read

Procedures:

1. Pick out your favorite board book or short book.
2. Pick a comfortable place to read to someone else.
3. If your child cannot read, then that is not a problem. Have them pick a story they are familiar with so they can describe what is happening in the book to another child.

Key Terms:

1. Plot is a term that means the events that make up a story. It is important how the events connect to each other. The path of the way the events connect make up the plot of a story or book.
2. Fiction is a story that is not based on fact or is not true.
3. Nonfiction is a story that is based on fact and is true.
4. A Biography is a form of nonfiction in which a writer tells the life story of another person.

Provide an engaging environment where kids explore, play and discover.
